A PRISONER'S LIFE

TARSH AGIWAL

*It was a joyous place,
From where I came
But now, I am imprisoned far away
In the palace of King Jerome.*

*I am a prisoner
Rusting in the jail
I am aging inside
And outside the prison are blooming dales.*

*I am a prisoner, a changed one
Only on myself and noticed by none.
I am so thirsty and hungry
With no food and water around
Years back I ate mouth-watering dishes
But now, just oats on the ground.*

*I am a prisoner
In the prison of King Jerome
It used to be a happy place at my home.
But now I am yelling
To come out of this storm.*

THE MIND OF AN INDIAN

MR. SANDEEP MISHRA (Comp. Dept.)

An Indian man walks into a bank in New York and asks for the loan officer. He tells the loan officer that he is going to India for a business work for two weeks and needs to borrow $5,000. The bank officer tells him that the bank will need some form of security for the loan, so the Indian man hands over the keys and documents of his new Ferrari parked on the street in front of the bank. He produces the title and after signing checks out. The loan officer agrees to accept the car as collateral for the loan.

The bank's president and its officers all enjoy a good laugh at the Indian for using a $250,000 Ferrari as collateral against a $5,000 loan. An employee of the bank then drives the Ferrari into the bank's underground garage and parks it there.

Two weeks later, the Indian returns, repays the $5,000 and the interest, which comes to $15.41. The loan officer says, "Sir, we are very happy to have had your business, and this transaction has worked out very nicely, but we are a little puzzled. While you were away, we checked you out and found that you are a multi millionaire. What puzzles us is, why would you bother to borrow "$5,000"? The Indian replies: "where else in New York City can I park my car for two weeks for only $15.41 and expect it to be there when I return?"

How great is the mind of an Indian because of whom India is shining.

GAME REVIEW RESIDENT EVIL 5

PARTH PARASHAR

This next-generation follow-up to the terrifying series introduces the theme of escape as its core survival instinct. As Chris Redfield (former S.T.A.R.S. member and now part of the BSAA unit), your life is in danger as you strive to complete your most dangerous mission yet in a sweltering desert colony where a new breed of evil has been unleashed. Swarms of marauding evil beings will charge at you when your pulse is racing at a heart-shattering pace. Environments will play a bigger factor than ever here, using the power of next-gen systems to create a world where terror might lurk in any alcove or shadow. Powerful lighting effects overwhelm the player with mirage movement and blinding brilliance, and even in the light of day, there is no safe haven in this Resident Evil.

Available On: Playstation 3 and Xbox 360

Release Date: March 2009

Cost: Rs.2,920
